SEVENTH ARREST IN FLOGGING IS MADE

(Associated Press.)
MACON, Ga., Sept. 8.—J. E. Bloodworth, travelling salesman, was arrested today on warrants charging rioting and assault and battery in connection with recent floggings in Macon. He immediately gave bond in the sum of $5,000 and was released. He travels for a local commission dry goods house. It was the seventh arrest in the round up of alleged floggers.
At least five arrests, possibly more, are to be made today, according to Roy W. Moore, city solicitor, in connection with information connecting Macon and Millidgeville members with the Ku Klux Klan with two invasions of the state training school for boys last month for the alleged purpose of kidnapping two negro employees, which is said to have been secured by county officials who are investigating the invasion.

The information, according to county authorities, was secured during a conference with Klansmen, which is said to have been held in an abandoned house ten miles from here last Monday. The nature of the information was not made public.
The trial of seven men, held in the floggings, was scheduled to be held held here next week. Solicitor Moore declared that the state had "an inexhaustible supply of testimony" to be presented at the trial.

their respective school buildings. If it should appear later that some school was so crowded as to make transfer of some pupils advisable, we shall consider the matter.

AMBASSADORS HOLD MERGER BILL TEST AGAINST THE GREEKS IS SET FOR MONDAY

Terms Are Laid Down In Council's Note For Reparations
GREECE ABIDES BY THE RULING

Will Not Push Claim In League Of Nations For Settlement

(By Associated Press.)
GENEVA, Sept. 8.—If Italy accepts yesterday's decision of the inter-allied council of ambassadors, Greece will view her dispute with the Italian government as settled and will not push here request to the League of Nations to investigate the crisis.
M. Politis, the Greek spokesman, added however, that acceptance was contingent upon whether the settlement reached at Paris included arrangements for the Italian evacuation of the island of Corfu and the other islands seized by the naval forces of the Rome government.
M. Politis said he understood the note of the ambassadors council virtually incorporated the measures proposed before the council of the League.

PARIS, Sept. 8.—The inter-allied council of ambassadors, in its note to Greece, made public today, lays down terms providing that satisfaction be given for the assassination of the Italian mission engaged in delimitation of the Greek-Albanian frontier, near Janina, on August 28.
The terms are very similar to those in the Italian ultimatum, part of which was rejected by the Greek government leading to the Italian occupation of the island of Corfu.
The council holds that an outrage committed under the circumstances attending the slaying of the Italian "directly involves the responsibility of the state in the territory of which it took place."

Taking into consideration the Greek government's declaration of its willingness to accept and make all reparations deemed equitable by the ambassadors, in the event its responsibilities were demonstrated, the council rules that as the outrage was of an entirely political character and perpetrated on persons entrusted with an official mission by the ambassador's council, such responsibility as greatly involved since the Greek government was bound to insure the safety of the commissioners.
The ambassadors warned Greece it will be held responsible for the safety of the commission of inquiry which is proceeding to the scene of the murders and she must give it all facilities and assistance in its task and defray its expenses.

The council has requested the Albanian government, should the commission's work necessitate it entering Albanian territory, to take similar measures of protection and assistance.
The note asks that the Greek deposit 50,000,000 lyre be made with the Swiss national bank "without delay."

The quo warranto proceedings instituted here by opponents of the Paterson merger bill which united Albany and Decatur will be heard Monday at 8:30 o'clock according to prevalent opinion among opposing attorneys.
The legal battle in connection with the proceedings is expected to last the entire day Monday, and it is to be fought out in the circuit court room.
It was stated by W. W. Callahan, one of the attorneys who will uphold the merger bill, that it is his understanding that Judge James E. Horton of Athens, would hear the arguments of opposing counsel.

Col. Tennis Tidwell one of the attorneys retained against the merger bill, stated, that the quo warranto proceedings were returnable Monday, but as to whether the matters involved would be tried on that day he was not sure, although he knew nothing to the contrary. As Judge Osceola Klye is holding court in Florence for Judge Charles Almon, it is not expected he will have any connection with the famous case, although it has been suggested that Judge Klye might sit with Judge Horton during the trial.

Judge James E. Horton, who is holding the circuit court here, is expected to recess that court during Monday. The attorneys who will uphold the merger bill are A. J. Harris, W. W. Callahan, Judge John C. Eyster and Charles H. Eyster. The attorneys who will attack the constitutionality of the bill are Col. Tennis Tidwell, Hon. E. W. Godbey and Judge Joel Bascombe Brown, of Cullman.

WOMAN'S COLLEGE TO OPEN MONDAY

The Woman's College at Athens will open on Tuesday and a number of Decatur girls are planning to enter that institution of learning. Athens college is the closest school of its kind and many of the women of this section were educated there. The college was founded and is maintained by the Methodist people, but students of all denominations attend it. The school was founded by Tennessee people, when Athens belonged to the M. E. South, Tennessee Conference, but with the founding of the North Alabama M. E. conference the property was turned over to that body.
The college is at present under the efficient direction of Dr. B. B. Glasgow. A notable evidence of the all-round-ability of that official was the skill and business ability he displayed in erection of the recently built dormitory of the college. Dr. Glasgow had entire charge of the building of the new dormitory. It is understood Athens college is to have still another new home built for its students soon and Dr. Glasgow will doubtless have charge of its erection.

Daily To Award Big Prizes Free

Three Automobiles, Handsome New Models, Included in the 15 Awards Offered to the Ambitious People Who Will Use Spare Time Working For Themselves—Everybody Wins

Watch Monday's Daily for display. The Decatur Daily announces one of the greatest circulation campaigns ever conducted by any daily newspaper in the state, in a city the size of Decatur. The object of this great campaign is, of course, greatly to increase the circulation of The Decatur Daily. In order to make this circulation quickly, several plans were first consulted by the management of The Decatur Daily. Finally the present plan of a great Salesmanship contest was decided upon, in order to give the general public an opportunity of sharing in this great enterprise and of reaping directly, the great reward.

The plan of this great campaign is very easy to understand. It is a voting contest pure and simple, with the people who have the ambition to secure the most votes, securing a reward in proportion to each individual effort.
There is no cost to the people who enter and take part in his great undertaking. The most votes secured according to the rules published below will decide the winners. There are but two ways of securing votes. One way is by clipping the free voting coupons appearing in each issue of The Decatur Daily and the other by securing paid subscriptions to The Decatur Daily.

Each paid subscription of The Decatur Daily that you secure a certain number of votes will be issued according to the schedule published. These votes are given to each candidate to hold until it is desired to have them published. In this manner each candidate becomes sole custodian of his or her votes, so there is no way of anyone finding out how many votes his or her competitor has. This feature alone prevents any undesirable features from entering the campaign.
The campaign will be kept on a high plane throughout and there will be nothing objectionable to the most refined.

Anyone can use his or her spare time and win any prize on the list. There are THREE valuable AUTOMOBILE, as you will see on the list, as well as many merchandise prizes. Everyone will win something who makes any effort at all, for the 10 percent cash commission insures everyone of at least being paid in proportion to the effort that each puts forth. In a few days the prizes will be on display in the windows of the merchants where they are bought.
The contest is now open to everybody. Just clip the entry coupon and send it to the CAMPAIGN MANAGER, P. O. 572. Address all communications regarding the contest to Campaign Manager, P. O. 572, Decatur, Ala.

Rules and Conditions
Any man or woman of good reputation, over sixteen years of age, residing in the city of Decatur or surrounding territory may become a candidate.
No employee of The Decatur Daily or member of his immediate family is eligible.
Candidates may enter their own names or be nominated by friends without cost.
The name of a person who places a candidate in nomination will not be divulged under any circumstances.
The campaign manager reserves the right to reject any nominations without giving any reason for doing so.
Votes are obtained either by being clipped from the paper or by procuring paid subscription to The Decatur Daily.
Votes cannot be transferred or purchased.
In the event of a typographical error it is understood that neither the newspaper nor the campaign manager shall be held responsible except to make the necessary correction on discovery of the same.
Subscriptions may be procured anywhere. All subscriptions must be paid in order to vote.
Every participant in the campaign has an equal chance of winning any of the three automobiles or any other prize on the list.
In the event of a tie, prizes of equal value and identical with the one tied for will be given.
No candidate will be allowed to pay for any subscription or any part of any subscription in order to secure the same in competition with another candidate.
All subscriptions must be turned in to the campaign manager within 48 hours from the time such subscription is secured. Penalty for holding subscriptions past this limit will be very severe.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Cotton futures opened firms, October 26-90; December 26-80; January 26-45; March 26-50; May 26-60.

BUYING MOVEMENT CONTINUED TODAY

Advance Of $13 A Bale Since Last Tuesday Saturday Record
DEMAND HEAVY ABROAD TODAY

Government Report Is Followed By Orders To Buy The Staple

(Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Cotton jumped $4.50 a bale in the local market today, October selling up to $27.90. This was an advance of more than $13.00 a bale for the low price reached on the reaction of last Tuesday. Prices for all deliveries made new high records for the season.

A heavy buying movement, which has been going on in the cotton market since publication of the government crop report at the end of the past month, continues.
The report of the census bureau showing the 1,144,337 bales ginned up to September 1, the largest amount on record for a like period, was only a momentary check in the advance.
Reports of an increasing active demand for cotton goods in Manchester and apprehension of a further reduction in crop estimates because of unfavorable weather in the south, were factors on the advance, which was also encouraged by the better news from the coal situation and the hope for an early settlement between Italy and Greece.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—Cotton ginned prior to September 1 amounted to 1,141,337 running bales, including 51-797 round bales which are counted as half bales.
To September 1 last year, according to a report issued by the census bureau, ginnings were 806,179 running bales, including 25,625 round bales counted as half bales.
A bulge of $7.50 a bale on the strongest positions in the cotton market today was the result of the heaviest buying encountered since the inception of the present bull campaign. All months were sent to new high levels for the season, October trading going up to 27-23 cents a pound at its best and closing at a range of 27-10 to 27-18. At the highest the active contract months were 127 to 146 points up and they closed at net gains on the day of 123 to 127 points.

Growing belief in a short crop appeared to be the main reason underlying the operations of the day and the advance was made in face of the heaviest ginning ever reported up to the first of September.
The argument was, however, that of a total quantity of cotton reported by the census bureau ginned to the first of September, Texas alone ginned 1,088,072, leaving all other states with unusually small ginnings.

The explanation for the heavy ginning in Texas was the premature opening of bolls in August and buyers contend that this heavy early ginning was not significant of a large crop for that state.

MINE AGREEMENT SEEMS NEAR NOW

(Associated Press.)
HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 8.—A wage contract, whose completion and ratification will insure resumption of anthracite mining at an early date, was more than half written at noon today when operators and miners temporarily adjourned.
Agreement has practically been reached.
John L. Lewis notified members of his scale committee to hold themselves in readiness for assembly this evening in order to take the first step in giving the contract union approval.

The Presidential request to help the earthquake victims in Japan should be taken as a command.

Whom the gods give too much they begrudge true happiness—especially if too much food and drinks.

The Italian man-on-horseback is "agin" the League of Nations. No wonder it was organized especially to oppose such fellows as Mussolini.

A motorcycle recently succeeded in running through a touring car to the destruction of the latter. One more case of a misdirected ambition.

Unless the League of Nations can stop the Italian-Greek war, for all practical purposes it had just as well be "deceased."

Not far down the long list of every day duties, is the difficult one to look with stern disfavor upon lawlessness.

CORFU AND ITS INVADERS.

All accounts agree that Corfu, the island in the Mediterranean sea, now occupied by Italian troops, is one of the most beautiful and attractive of the group of islands called the Ionian Islands. Corfu is the most northerly of these islands. Its length is given as about 36 miles with a breadth of from four to 20 miles. In 1879 the population of Corfu was given at 106,109. The island is said to be mountainous, with many very fertile valleys which yield figs, oranges, honey, wine and olive oil. Chamber's Encyclopedia gives the following description of Corfu: "Its climate is generally mild and healthy. The principal city, Corfu, underwent a great improvement during the British protectorate and is copiously supplied with water. Corfu is situated on an elevation, has some good streets and has a fine esplanade. The city with about 17,000 inhabitants, and a considerable trade is the seat of the Archbishop of the Greek Church and of a Latin Bishop. The principal institutions are the penitentiary, lunatic asylum, the infirmary, founding hospital, etc. The university founded by Lord Guilford in 1823, now represented by a lyceum, was suppressed when, in 1864, the Ionian Islands were incorporated with the kingdom of Greece. At the incorporation it was stipulated that Corfu and Paxos were to enjoy perpetual neutrality."

The excerpt taken from the reference book was written long before Mussolini, the present autocrat of Italy, was thought of. He was doubtless familiar with the knowledge contained in the last line of the quotation, namely that Corfu was guaranteed neutrality, when he ordered war made upon the defenseless island, therefore the Italian ruler violated all the rules and conventions of our modern world. When a similar act was committed by the Central Powers against Belgium in 1914, the "actors" were not allowed to go scot free, neither will Mussolini and the misguided Italians who are supporting his schemes.

THE ITALIANS WILL REAP
THE BITTER FRUITS OF CONQUEST.

It does not appear on the surface why the Italians seized Corfu but a little examination as to the location of the island makes it reasonable to believe that aggression pure and simple was the motive of Mussolini and his supporters. Corfu commands the straits of Otranto, thus giving the country that holds it great influence over the traffic in the Adriatic sea.

Italy is said to already hold the western side of the straits and now that country by capturing Corfu holds the eastern side. It is claimed that if Italy can hold Corfu indefinitely, she can control the Adriatic absolutely.

By fortifying Corfu, it is said Italy could close the ports of Albania and Serbia with the countries further north, such as Austria and Hungary. The countries influenced by the bold Italian move are therefore about as much interested as Greece herself.

Nobody believes Mussolini seized Corfu because he wanted to save the honor of Italy, but in an attempt to open a world of trade to the Italian merchants.

The time had not expired set by the Italians in their ultimatum to Greece before they began to fire on Corfu. The humble answer of the Greeks to the ultimatum had no influence. The fact that many innocent people were murdered by the fire from the Italian battleships had no weight against the "heaven-born" opportunity to seize a strategic position long coveted.

Enlightened statesmen at the close of the World War sought to organize the great powers against just what has happened at Corfu. America's greatest statesman all but gave up his life for such an organization, but the American people would not back Mr. Wilson and so the League of Nations is too weak to cope with the situation. America's unwillingness to help police the world makes it impossible to stop Mussolini at this time. He will work his will for some time to come, but he is sure to come under the law of compensation—he is sure to reap what he has sown.

A Train Of Thoughts
For the Sabbath and Other Days
(By J. E. Blair.)

For the sake of argument let us accept all Rev. Ham, the evangelist, says relative to our close proximity to the bow-wows. What should be the next move? A quick get-away to another position—a hasty removal from the land of the dogs. In scripture words, we should "come out from among them." Potentially, are all sheep of His pasture—we are all potentially of the flock of the Good Shepherd, or else the old hymn words, "He included me," are not true. But writers of triumphant religious songs do not tell lies! Besides who doubts the generous scripture message of invitation, "Whosoever will let him come and drink of the water of life"? Who doubts St. John 3-16, "God sent His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on Him shall not perish but have everlasting life." Suppose it is true, as the late Henry Watterson is quoted as saying that civilization moves forward and then backs up, and that, as Rev. Ham seems to think our age has put its hand to the plow only to turn back, none of those things mean that as individuals, we have to abandon the highest Christian ideals. Granted our age is hell bent, we do not have to bend.

It looks like the evil being of such a frightful mien, we should all be glad to flee from it. That is the way it looks, but the best authorities say that without Gods' help, the more we see of vice the more we are apt to embrace it. If that statement is true—it was made in other words first by Pope the great writer—then there is no telling how deep humanity is apt to sink into the quicksands of sin—all Mr. Ham says and more is apt to be true.

But hear it once more, we do not have to gallop with the gang, unless the gang's objective is heaven. (In passing, it should be added that the "gang" is a mighty attractive bunch—a really loveable crowd in many respects, but despite its good qualities the "gang" may be headed toward the jumping off place—going pell mell through the wide gates to ruin.)

It is said to be easy to pass down the road to destruction, but better a thousand times to scale the straight-up road, narrow though it be, to the narrow gate. Lets go on up and see what it is all about. Why not let a mighty wonder, an eternal curiosity get hold of our minds? St. Paul seemed to have some holy wonder when he said he was going to follow on so as to "apprehend." But stop! What is being said, that in spiritual matters, "safety first" is the rule—that the cup of happiness can be enjoyed alone? No, a thousand times no! If our associates will not drink with us at the soda fountain, the drinks are not good, and if our associates will not drink of the cup of eternal life with us, the cup of eternal life contains a drop of bitterness.

It is not enough to accept God's promises for ourselves. The right picture of the "Rock of Ages" shows the rescued rescuing another." Not what we have, but what we share, applies in the big game of life eternal as well as in the earthly lives we lead day by day.

Finally, it is all right to escape the bow-wows, but you cannot leave the dogs unless you seek to take others out of their filthy presence.

Malaria Germs
Are Seen In Blood

Those who have good eye sight, if they were to examine some of the malaria germs seen daily at the Tennessee Valley Laboratory, would have a hard time arguing against the "germ theory." The blue and red substances seen in blood "smears", and declared by Miss Elderidge, the director, to be the real malaria germs, are too plain to be explained away. When looking through the glass at the said germs, "seeing is believing," that human blood can be infested with unnatural substances, at least, and until it should be proven that the red and blue substances seen are not malaria germs, the average mind will accept as a fact that one of the South's greatest diseases is a germ disease.

The actual appearance of visitors of these germs, is arousing new and enthusiastic interest in the every day fight being made against malaria.

Ehmke Twirls A
No-Hit Contest

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 8—Howard Ehmke of the Boston Red Sox received credit for the second no run no hit game pitched in this city during the week when he shut out the Athletics yesterday 4 to 0. The game was similar to the performance of Sam Jones of the Yankees last Tuesday in that one man walked and one reached first on an error.

In the sixth inning, Bryan Harris, who opposed Ehmke on the mound, had a chance to spoil his rivals record, but was out on a long drive for not touching first base. Then in the eighth when it seemed that Ehmke would surely reach his goal, Welch hit a liner to left. Menosky reached the ball but fumbled it sufficiently for Welch to reach first.

At first it was recorded as a single, but before the inning was concluded the official scorer ruled that Menosky had committed an error and Ehmke's record was safe.

Twenty-eight men faced Ehmke, just one less than were against Jones last Tuesday. Hauser drew a pass and was forced at second by Miller. A double play erased Miller from the paths and Welch was the only Mackman left on the paths during the contest.

Referee Predicts
A Speedy Growth

Judge Jere Murphee came over from Huntsville this morning and is holding the federal bankrupt court for Morgan County at the court house.

In speaking of the press reports to the effect that large developments were about to be made in the Tennessee Valley because of the sureness of the completion of Wilson Dam Judge Murphee said at the union depot, that such cities as Huntsville, Athens, Cullman and Decatur stood as good a chance of getting big industries in the near future as such cities as Florence, Tusculumbia and Sheffield.

RHINELAND RESIDENTS SWAT
NATIVE AMERICAN MOSQUITOES

COBLENZ—The United States is blamed for having supplied Coblenz and the area about the junction of the Rivers Rhine and Moselle with larger mosquitoes than are known in any other part of the German Republic.

In the Franco-Prussian War of 50 years ago, Fort Ehrenbreitstein was a concentration point for French prisoners and an important cavalry and artillery center.

Large numbers of horses and mules were kept there, and because of the shortage of forage in Germany to meet the needs of the animals, great quantities of hay were imported from the United States. American mosquitoes were imported in this hay, according to the old German army officers who were there at that time, and threw in their new surroundings.

However, the American brand of mosquito has not wandered far from his new home, and the pests along the Baltic Coast and throughout the interior of Germany still are of a type so small that they can filter through the ordinary mosquito netting.

COTTON CROP LOOKS GOOD IN THE COUNTY

By J. E. Hair

Modern vehicles move too swiftly in their flight by the cotton fields to allow the traveler a good opportunity to see whether or not the leaf worm and the weevil have done this or that or the other, with the cotton between here and Ryan, via Hartselle, Six Mile, and Florette, but if the bolls are half as good as the leaf and weed of the cotton, there will be an average cotton crop in most of the southern part of Morgan county.

Speaking about roads from the fast speed taken on by tourists between here and Hartselle they feel that the Bee Line Highway is as good as the best.

Down as far as Florette, despite the recent heavy rains all stretches of roads were good, but beyond the Florette school house, let automobile drivers, put on their wheel chains and look well to the middle of the road lest they "skid" off into the side ditches.

If it had not been for J. H. Ryan, a tall unstanding young man of the county the auto, driven by Miss Ella Dale on the road below Florette would have stayed in the deep red mud, as far as all human eyes could see. Young Ryan proved over again that "youth will be served" as he made the auto engine serve his purpose while various and sundry men pushed at the wheels of Miss Dale's car until he came out from the mud and water a hero to those whom he had benefited.

At Ryan high school, whither Miss Hale, the county health nurse, had driven Friday morning to inoculate some fifty of the 80 odd students, appeared that old friend of the Daily, Rev. E. E. Weaver, formerly principal of the Austinville high school, and now the English teacher at Ryan, assisting Prof. Wodruff, the efficient principal of the school. Rev. Weaver was formerly Morgan County all-time field worker for the Baptist Association, but has now accepted a call to the new Baptist church at Ryan, and in addition to preaching, teaches five days in the week.

Not only did the pupils of the Ryan school take the inoculations against fever, but many people of the neighborhood took it also, including, young E. G. Crawford, a brother of Joe Crawford of Ryan. Still another man, not a student took the treatment, William McAnally. He first took an axe and cut away timbers that had lodged in a mud hole and incidentally jammed their way under Miss Dale's car until it would not budge. Mr. McAnally ranks equal to Ryan as an auto rescuer.

Not as a reward, for Mr. McAnally would have none, but because it was her duty to do so, the county nurse inoculated the benefactor who pulled her car out of the mud for the second time.

The Ryan people read the daily newspapers, including the Daily, and Prof. Weaver says he is going to enlighten the readers of this paper with regular news letters from Ryan, they leave the "cross roads" part off since the people of Ryan have emerged into a real town.

Winter Cabbage Crop Doing Well

Only seven cities in the state outrank in population our new and splendid city. Let none of them out-rank us in consecration to duty, in devotion to the cause of education. Older people may differ and debate but the children must be educated as the years pass swiftly by. Let us lift on high the banner of education and call on the people to stand by their schools to support their teachers, to give their boys and girls the opportunities that come from united effort.

"Well, you know, DUFFEY, I do this cheap, get-by AUTO PAINTING—it looks fairly good when it is finished, but she won't last, I know that, Duffey, as well as you do; I know the people won't spend their money that way if they know it, but you see, DUFFEY, I can clean up with that kind of AUTO PAINTING, it is all profit, but I can't fool the people long enough, I have to move from one town to another every four or five months.

"DUFFEY, on the square, what would you advise me to do?"

"Well, Tom, from what you say, I would advise you to move on, the people here have had enough of that kind of auto painting.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Sept. 8.—A bill of complaint, seeking to restrain state Superintendent of Education, John W. Ambercrombie from receiving more than one salary from the state of Alabama has been filed in the Montgomery county circuit court by G. T. McElderry, of Talladega.

The complaint seeks also to restrain State Auditor Allgood from acknowledging the double salary.

Big Crowd Braves Rain At The Tent

does not know sin and cannot sin. Hence the conflict between the two natures begins. Many a young convert has been discouraged because he thought that after his conversion he would never have troubled with the old carnal nature but, to his dismay he found that the old nature was still present in his life. Too, it seemed to be present in a greater degree than before, but that is accounted for by the fact that it is shown up in contrast with the new nature which comes in its purity and strength and causes all the ugliness and weakness of the old Adam nature to stand out in bold relief.

There Are Two Religions
"Now, there are two religions; the religion that appeals to the old nature and that which appeals to the new nature." Mr. Ham illustrated this point by citing the experiences of Saul and Tarsus and explaining that before his conversion he was a religious man—he was a Jew, he kept the commandments, he had been circumcised, in fact he had obeyed every form and ritual of which he had any knowledge but it was all empty and a religion of vanity and merely gave him something to boast of; however, when he was converted all these empty forms were swept away and his chief characteristic was humility and his chief desire amounted to a passion to point other men to Christ.

"These two religions exist today," he continued, "and we call them Christianity and Judaism. That religion which insists on the forms and rituals and empty, shallow pretenses and forgets Christ and the power of His spirit is Judaism, while that religion that seeks to exalt the Christ and to make men a living expression of Christ on earth is Christianity."

EXTENSION IS ASKED OF POWER COMPANY

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—The government has asked the Alabama Power Company to extend from October 1 to November 1 the time by which, according to contract, the Gorgas steam power plant is either to be removed from the lands of the power company or sold to it by the war department.

What action the power company will take on the request has not been indicated to the war department.

The request for the extension results from the recent conference between Henry Ford, President Coolidge and Secretary Weeks on Mr. Ford's offer to buy the Muscle Shoals property. Mr. Ford's offer of $5,000,000 for the property includes the Gorgas plant and he is now considering a request by the government that he modify the offer in that respect.
